THE TALKING PILLOW

One lazy afternoon, Vihaan and Kaira were cleaning their room.

"Why do we have to clean?"

Vihaan groaned.

"Because Mum said so," Kaira replied, folding clothes.

Vihaan picked up his pillow and flopped it on the bed.

"Wait..." he said. "This feels strange."

"What?" Kaira asked.

"There's something inside!"

They unzipped the pillow cover carefully.

Out slipped a tiny, folded piece of paper.

"A map?" Kaira said, surprised.

Just then—

"AHM." They froze.

"Finally, you found it," said a voice.

They slowly looked at the pillow.

"You can TALK?" Vihaan said. "Of course," the pillow replied. "And that map... is very important."

"What is it?" Kaira asked.

"It's a secret map," the pillow said. "It leads to something special hidden in this house."

Vihaan's eyes lit up. "TREASURE?!"

"Maybe," the pillow said mysteriously. "But you must follow the clues."

Kaira smiled. "Let's go!"

Clue 1: The Warm Corner

The map showed a tiny drawing of a corner with wavy lines.

"The warm corner..." Kaira thought. "Kitchen!"

They ran to the kitchen.

Near the toaster, they found a small note:

"Where books sleep and stories hide..."

Clue 2: The Quiet Place

"Books sleep in the bookshelf!" Vihaan said.

They rushed there and searched carefully.

Behind a big storybook, they found another clue:

"Look where shoes wait before they go out."

The Waiting Spot

"The shoe rack!" Kaira said.

They ran again.

Inside one of the shoes, they found tiny key.

"And one last note," Vihaan said, reading it:

"The treasure is where you began."

The Big Surprise

They looked at each other.

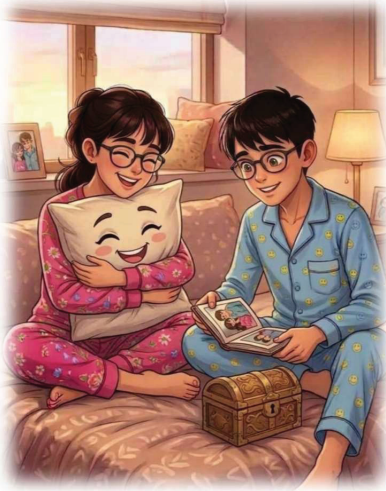

"Our room!"

They raced back and looked at the bed.

"The pillow!" Kaira said.

They lifted it... and found a small hidden box underneath.

Vihaan used the key.

CLICK.

The box opened.

Inside were...

Old, beautiful photos of them—laughing, playing, hugging, growing up together.

"There's no gold?" Vihaan said softly.

The pillow spoke gently.

"Those are your treasures."

Kaira smiled. "Our memories..."

"Yes," said the pillow.

"The happiest moments you've already lived."

Vihaan looked at the pictures again and grinned.

"This is actually the best treasure."

Kaira hugged the pillow. "You're not just a pillow... you're full of secrets!"

The pillow chuckled. "Only the important ones."

That night, they didn't just go to sleep...

They went to bed smiling,

holding their little box of memories close.

Because sometimes...

the greatest treasure isn't something you find... it's something you already have.

THE LOST PUPPY

On a quiet evening, when the sky turned soft purple and the garden lights began to glow, Kaira & Vihaan stepped out to play with their puppy into their building garden.

They were laughing, running and enjoying. Suddenly the puppy ran off.

Where did it go? Kaira asked. "I don't see it...." Vihaan answered. The garden which felt cheerful moments ago, suddenly felt quiet & mysterious.

Somewhere between the bushes, a tiny rustle broke the silence. They followed the sound. Vihaan leaned closer to the bushes, carefully pushing aside the leaves. Kaira bent down beside him, her eyes wide with curiosity.

"May be its hiding,' she said softly.

But all they saw were shadows and moving leaves. So, they kept searching.

They walked across the little wooden path, peeking behind plants, under branches and near every corner.

The Garden looked magical at night- tiny lights glowed like fireflies, and the trees swayed gently as if whispering secrets.

Still.... no puppy.

Let's check near the steps," Vihaan suggested.

They walked slowly, side by side, thinking hard.

"What if it's scared?" Kaira said.

"Then we have to be extra gentle," Vihaan replied.

Near a small tree, they stopped again. Both of them leaned forward, looking closely.

Something moved.

"Did you see that?" Kaira gasped.

But once again, it was just the wind playing tricks.

They didn't give up.

They climbed a small grassy hill, carefully stepping through the soft grass.

Vihaan led the way.

Kaira followed, determined.

"Where could it be?" she wondered aloud.

Then—

A tiny, soft bark, "Woof".

They ran toward the sound.

And there it was.

A small, fluffy
puppy, sitting quietly among the flowers, looking up at them with bright, hopeful eyes.

"You found us!"
Kaira smiled.

The puppy
wagged its tail happily.

Later, they sat together on the steps.

The little puppy sat
right between them, safe and warm.

No more searching.
No more worry.

Just three quiet hearts hugged each other,
together under the glowing lights.

"Patience & not giving up can help us find what is lost."

THE BEST SPLASH DAY EVER

The sun was bright, and the pool shimmered like a giant blue mirror. Kaira adjusted her pink cap and smiled. Vihaan wore his goggles and looked ready for action.

"Come on, Kaira! Let's go!" he said excitedly.

They stepped onto the flat stones in the pool, balancing carefully.

"Don't fall!" Kaira teased.

"You first!" Vihaan laughed.

Suddenly, SPLASH! They jumped into the water together, sending ripples everywhere.

Kaira held onto Vihaan's shoulders as he paddled forward.

"Faster, captain!" she giggled.

"Aye aye!" Vihaan said, pretending to be a speedboat.

They zoomed across the pool, laughing and kicking, making waves behind them. It felt like they were on a fun water adventure together.

After swimming around, they climbed back onto the stones. Water dripped from their clothes as they faced each other.

"Race you to the next stone!" Kaira challenged.

"Easy!" Vihaan replied confidently.

They hopped quickly—one stone, then another—trying not to slip.

"Careful!" Kaira said, almost losing balance.

"I'm winning!" Vihaan cheered.

But just then—SPLASH!
Both of them slipped and fell into the water at the same time.

For a second, they were quiet... then burst out laughing.

"That was the best race ever!" Kaira said.

"Even better because we both lost!" Vihaan added.

They sat back on the stones, each holding a colourful pool noodle—Kaira with a pink one and Vihaan with a blue one.

"Let's have a noodle battle!" Vihaan said with a grin.

Kaira laughed. "You're going down!"

They gently tapped each other with the soft noodles, trying to make the other lose balance.

"Hey! That's cheating!" Kaira said, laughing as she wobbled.

"You started it!" Vihaan replied.

Soon, they both slipped back into the water again, splashing loudly.

"Round two in the pool!" Kaira shouted.

Water flew everywhere as they splashed and laughed, enjoying every second.

Vihaan splashed water at Kaira.

"Oh really?" she said, splashing him back.

A splash battle began!

Vihaan wrapped his arms around Kaira from behind. "Got you!"

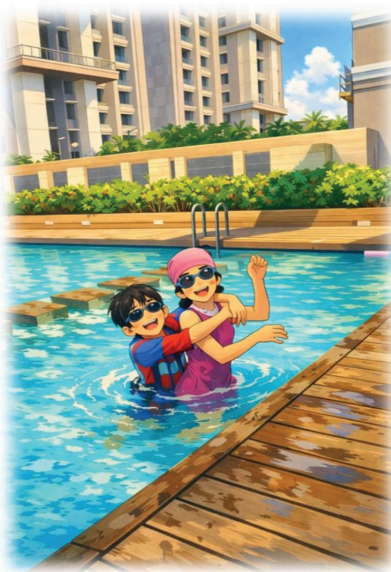

Kaira raised her hand like a champion. "I still win!"

"No way!" Vihaan laughed.

"We both win!"

As they stood in the pool, smiling and catching their breath, the water sparkled around them.

"This is the best day ever," Kaira said softly.

Vihaan nodded.

"Because we're together."

After all the splashing, they floated gently on their backs in the cool water. The sky looked bright above them, and everything felt calm and peaceful.

"This feels like flying," Kaira said softly.

Vihaan smiled. "Or floating in space!"

They stayed quiet for a moment, enjoying the peaceful water around them.

"Last jump!" Vihaan shouted excitedly.

They climbed onto the stepping stones again, ready for one final splash.

"On three!" Kaira said.

"One... two... three!"

They both jumped high into the air—SPLASH!

Water flew everywhere as they landed, laughing and cheering.

"Swimming is so much fun!" Kaira said.

Vihaan grinned.

"Tomorrow, we will do it again!"

As the water sparkled around them, their laughter filled the air—ending a perfect day of fun, joy, and the happiest sibling moments ever.

The best moments are by joy, laughter and togetherness.

THE DAY COLOURS WENT MISSING

One bright morning, Vihaan woke up with a yawn and stretched his arms wide.

"Good morning, Kaira!"
he called.

But something felt... strange.

Kaira walked in, rubbing her eyes. "Vihaan... why does everything look so... dull?"

Vihaan looked around.
The walls were grey.

The sky outside was pale.

Even Kaira's pink dress looked... almost white.

"Where did all the colours go?" Vihaan whispered.

The Colourless World

They ran outside.

The garden had no green.

The flowers had no red or yellow.

Even the bright blue sky had turned soft and faded.

"This is not normal," Kaira said, worried.

Just then, a tiny voice spoke—

"Because you forgot us..."

They looked down and saw a small,

Shimmering creature no bigger than Vihaan's hand.

"I am Tinto, the Keeper of Colours," it said sadly.

"What happened?" Kaira asked.

Tinto sighed.

"Colours don't just exist. They come from joy, kindness, laughter, and imagination. But lately... people have been too busy, too serious... and have forgotten to feel."

Vihaan and Kaira looked at each other.

"Can we bring the colours back?" Vihaan asked.

Tinto smiled a little.

"Yes. But you must spread the missing feelings."

The Mission Begins

First, they saw a little boy sitting alone.

Kaira sat beside him.
"Want to play?"

He smiled slowly.

Suddenly—

A tiny splash of yellow appeared in the air.

"Did you see that?"
Vihaan shouted.

Spreading Joy

They helped an old lady carry her bags.

Blue sparkled around them.

They made a silly face contest and burst out laughing.
Orange danced in the air.

They planted a small sapling together.
A soft green glow spread across the ground.

Colours Return

With every kind act, more colours came back.

The sky slowly turned blue again.

The flowers bloomed with bright reds and pinks.

The world began to shine once more.

Tinto appeared again, glowing brighter than before.

"You did it," he said.
"You reminded the world how to feel."

The Real Magic

That evening, Vihaan and Kaira sat together, watching the sunset.

"Do you think colours will disappear again?" Vihaan asked. Kaira smiled.

"Only if we forget to be kind, happy, and playful."

Vihaan grinned.

"Then we'll never let that happen!"

And as they laughed, the sky painted itself in the most beautiful colours of all.

Colours don't just live in the world... they live inside us. When we share kindness and joy, we bring colour to everything around us.

THE POWER OF GOOD HABITS

Active Mornings

The sun was rising, and the park was fresh and green. Kaira and Vihaan wore their helmets and started cycling together.

"Let's race to that big tree!" Vihaan said "Only if you can catch me!" Kaira laughed.

They pedalled faster, feeling the cool breeze on their faces.

"Cycling makes us strong!" Kaira said.

"And happy!" Vihaan added.

They smiled, knowing their day had started the healthy way.

Helping at Home

Back home, it was time to keep their room clean.

"I'll sweep!" said Vihaan.

"I'll mop!" said Kaira.

They worked together, laughing as they cleaned.

"A clean space feels so nice," Kaira said.

"And it's good for us too!" Vihaan replied.

They learned that helping at home is also a healthy habit.

Playing & Staying Fit

Later, they went out to play. They picked up their rackets and started a fun game.

"Ready?" Kaira asked.

"Always ready!"

Vihaan said.

They ran, jumped, and played with energy.

"Playing keeps us fit!"
Vihaan said.

"And strong!" Kaira added.

After that, they even did a few simple exercises together.

"Healthy body, happy mind!" they both said.

Eating Healthy Food

At lunchtime, a colourful plate was waiting.

"Wow! So many healthy foods!" Kaira said.

They ate fresh vegetables, fruits, and a balanced meal.

"Healthy food gives us energy," Vihaan said.

"And helps us grow," Kaira added.

They enjoyed every bite, knowing they were taking care of their bodies.

Drinking Milk & Staying Strong

After lunch, they each had a glass of milk.

"Cheers!" Vihaan smiled.

Kaira giggled, "For strong bones!"

They drank their milk happily.

"Healthy drinks are important too," Kaira said.

Vihaan nodded, "Yes, not just tasty drinks!"

Helping & Being Responsible

Later, they helped again at home.

Kaira washed the dishes while Vihaan dried them carefully.

Then they ironed clothes together, working as a team.

"We make a great team," Vihaan said.

"Yes! Helping each other is also a good habit," Kaira smiled.

In the evening, they sat together with their favourite books.

"Books are like adventures," Kaira said.

"And they help our minds grow strong," Vihaan added.

A Perfect Healthy Day

As the day ended, they felt proud and happy.

"That's a perfect day!"

They smiled at each other.

"Healthy habits make life better," Kaira said.

"Let's follow them every day!" Vihaan replied.

And with that, they ended their day—strong, happy, and full of good habits.

Good habits today build a bright tomorrow.

THE SURPRISE TEST

It was a normal school day.

Or at least... it looked normal.

Kaira was busy finishing her classwork neatly.

Vihaan was busy... drawing a superhero in the corner of his notebook.

"Look!" he whispered. "Flying Ninja Hero!"

Kaira shook her head.

"You should finish your work first."

Vihaan grinned.

"There's plenty of time!"

The Big Announcement

Just then, the teacher walked in with a stack of papers.

"Good morning, class," she said.

"Today, we'll have a surprise test."

The room froze.

Someone dropped a pencil.

Someone whispered, "What?!"

Vihaan's superhero suddenly didn't feel very heroic anymore.

Panic Mode

"A test? But... today?" Vihaan whispered.

Kaira nodded calmly.

"Yes. That's why it's called a surprise test."

Vihaan flipped through his notebook.

"Why didn't I revise?" he muttered.

As the papers were handed out, Vihaan looked at Kaira.

"Maybe... just maybe... you can help me a little?" he whispered.

Kaira looked at him seriously.

"No. You can do it. Just try."

Trying His Best

Vihaan took a deep breath. "Okay. Think."

He remembered bits from class.

A word here. An answer there.

Not perfect... but something.

Slowly, he started writing.

A Small Victory

When the test ended, Vihaan leaned back.

"That was hard," he said.

Kaira smiled. "But you didn't give up."

Vihaan grinned. "Yeah... and I think I got some answers right!"

Later, the teacher returned their papers.

Vihaan looked at his marks.

Not full marks.

But not bad either. He smiled.

Lesson Learned

"I should probably study a little every day," Vihaan said.

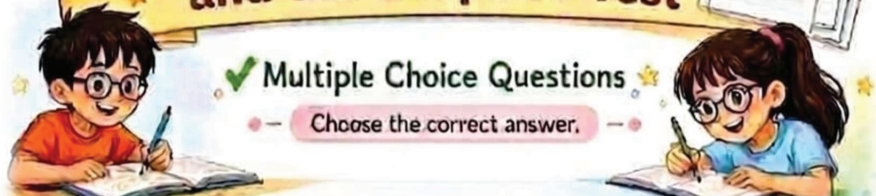

Kaira laughed.

"Or at least before drawing superheroes."

Vihaan smiled.

Being prepared every day is better than panicking at the last moment.

THE STRANGE DAY

One bright morning, Vihaan and Kaira woke up feeling... different.

Kaira stretched her arms. "Why does my bed feel so big?"

Vihaan sat up—and gasped.

"Kaira... look at the door!"

The door looked HUGE. The table looked like a mountain.

Even their shoes looked like giant boats.

Kaira looked at her hands. "Vihaan... I think... we shrunk!"

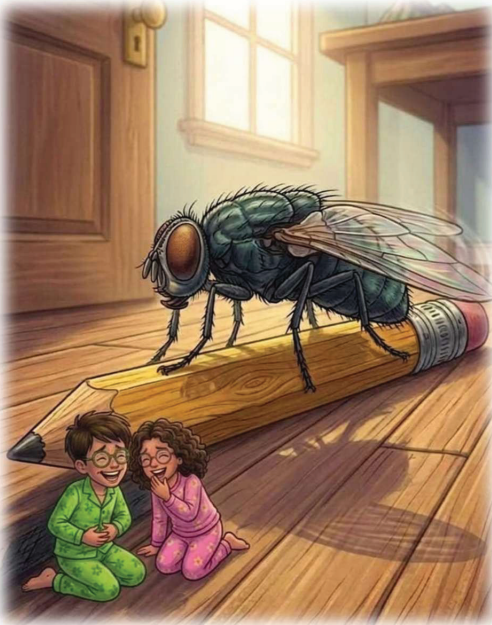

They had become as tiny as ants.

Just then, a loud buzzing sound filled the room.

A housefly zoomed past them like a helicopter.

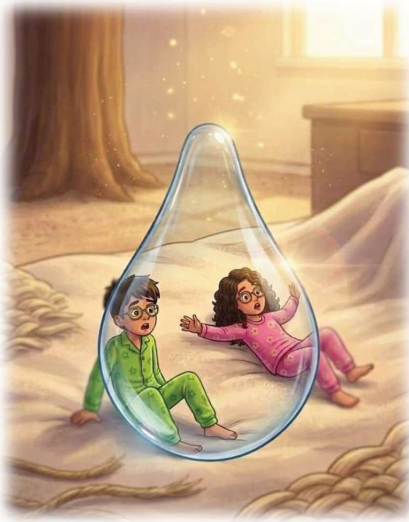

"RUN!" Vihaan shouted.

They dashed across the floor, hiding behind a giant pencil.

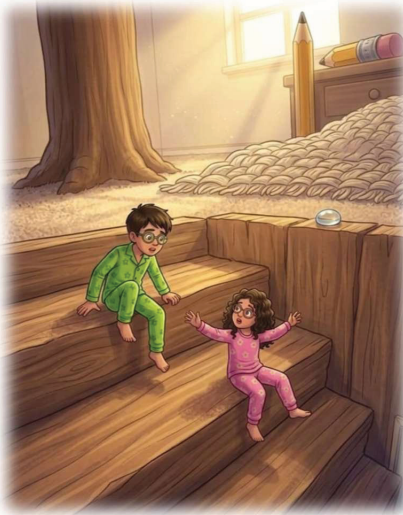

"This is crazy!" Kaira laughed. "Everything is an adventure now!"

They carefully explored their room.

A small water drop looked like a crystal ball. A crumb from yesterday's biscuit looked like a giant rock.

"Let's go outside," Vihaan said.

"Outside?" Kaira raised an eyebrow. "At this size?"

But she smiled. "Okay... let's do it."

They climbed down the steps—each step feeling like a big jump—and finally reached the garden.

And what they saw...
took their breath away.

The grass looked like a forest. Flowers were taller than buildings. A butterfly flew past them like a colourful flying ship.

"This is magical," Kaira whispered.

Suddenly, they heard a tiny voice.

"Hey! Watch where you step!"

They looked down.

An ant stood there,
hands on its hips.

"We're sorry!" Vihaan said quickly.

The ant sighed.

"Humans never look down. But... wait... you're tiny!"

"We know," Kaira said. "Do you know how to fix it?"

The ant thought for a moment. "Maybe. Follow me."

They followed the ant through the "grass forest" to a glowing mushroom.

"This," the ant said, "is the Balance Mushroom. It keeps things the right size."

"But today, something went wrong. That's why you shrunk."

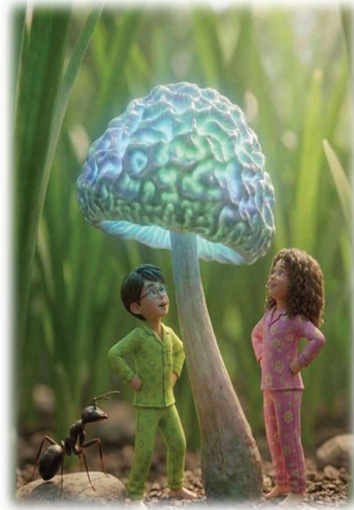

Vihaan stepped closer. "Can we fix it?"

The ant nodded. "If you work together."

Kaira and Vihaan looked at each other.

"Teamwork?" Vihaan smiled.

"Always," Kaira said.

They carefully climbed the mushroom. It wobbled.

"Steady!" Kaira said.

Kaira held the glowing top while Vihaan gently straightened it.

The mushroom glowed brighter... and brighter...

WHOOSH!

Everything spun.

The garden shrank.

The house returned to normal.

And suddenly—

Vihaan and Kaira were back to their original size.

They looked at each other and laughed.

"That was the strangest day ever," Vihaan said.

Kaira smiled. "And the most magical."

Vihaan looked down at the ground thoughtfully.

"From now on... I think we should always be careful where we step."

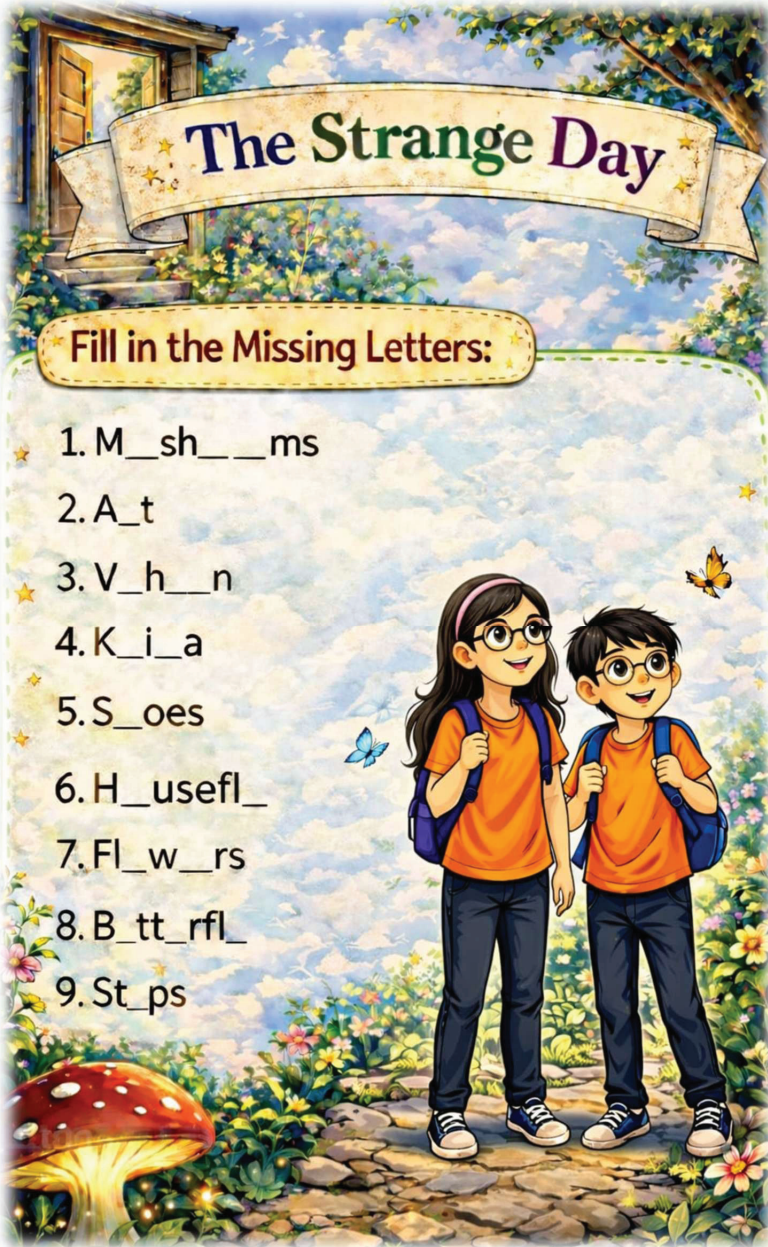

Kaira nodded. "Because you never know... what tiny world is right beneath you."

And from that day on,

Vihaan and Kaira never looked at the world the same way again. 🌱 ✨

Every strange day brings a new lesson and new adventure.

Activity 7

THE GREAT STAYCATION JOURNEY

Vihaan and Kaira's vacations had finally started!

At first, they were super excited.

They built a cozy pillow fort

They were having so much fun building their pillow fort. "This is our castle!" said Kaira.

"And we are the kings of fun!" laughed Vihaan.

Later, Kaira and Vihaan cozied up and started reading their favourite books together.

After reading, they cleaned up their toys and books without being asked.

"Wow! You both are such responsible kids," said

Mom.

After doing so many fun activities, they still felt bored.

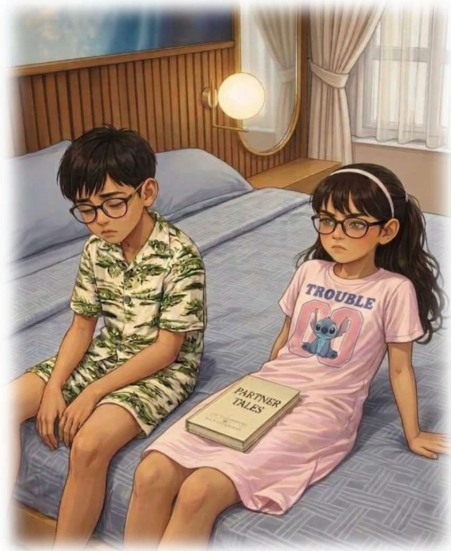

"I don't know what to do now..." Kaira said quietly.

"Everything feels the same," Vihaan agreed.

Even their favourite games didn't feel fun anymore.

They both sat silently, thinking...

Suddenly, Vihaan snapped his fingers!

"I've got it!"

"What?" Kaira asked curiously.

"Let's go to Granny's house for a staycation!"
he said.

Kaira jumped with joy. "Yes!
That's the best idea ever!"

Soon, they packed their bags and got ready to go Granny's
house.

"Staycation
at Granny's house will be so much fun!" Vihaan said happily."

They reached Granny's house, excited and smiling.

Granny welcomed them with a warm hug.

"My little stars have arrived!" she said
happily.

As soon as they reached Granny's house, they started helping her.

They watered Granny's plants and talked to them.

"Grow big and strong!"
said Vihaan.

"Granny, your garden is so beautiful!" Kaira said with a big smile.

Later, they happily helped Granny fold the clothes and set the table.

Vihaan carefully set the plates while Kaira neatly arranged the cutlery.

Kaira said, "See, even small hands can do big work!"

In the afternoon,

they helped Granny make chapatis.

Vihaan's chapati looked like a funny cloud.

Everyone laughed, especially Granny.

In the evening, they played in the garden, chasing butterflies and picking flowers.

"They were enjoying their staycation at Granny's house so much."

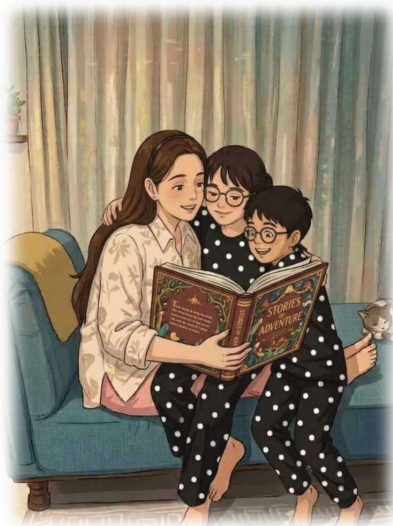

After dinner, they relaxed and played some fun games with Granny, and she told them a magical story.

"Wow, Granny, this story is so amazing!" said Vihaan excitedly."

"After the story, Kaira smiled and said softly, Staycations are so much fun."

Vihaan nodded, "Yes... because we play, help, eat healthy, and spend time with family."

Granny smiled and tucked them in.
You both are learning
the most important things in life.

As the stars
twinkled outside,
Vihaan and Kaira
drifted into sweet dreams—

Happiness comes from simple moments, helping others, and spending time with family.
